... could order the troops ... trouble."

It is thought by many people here that the commissioner may order the American flag hoisted again before returning. The situation summarized, the provisional government feels itself strong enough to quell any internal disturbance and maintain its authority. The finances are ample for carrying on the government. The annexation sentiment is quietly strengthening, but the delay in the settlement of the question is injurious to business interests. The government lately revised the sedition and treason laws, modelling them after the Queensland statutes. During their consideration Councillor Emmeluth introduced the following resolutions:

Whereas, The provisional government was organized the 17th of January for the purpose of furthering annexation of these islands to the United States, and,

Whereas, This provisional government has been recognized by all representatives of the foreign powers as the sole government of these islands;

Resolved, That the agitation for the restoration of the ex-Queen, for any purpose other than that for which the government has been organized, is hereby declared within the meaning of the Sedition Act, and the Police Department is hereby instructed to proceed against all persons [illegible] order said act.

After much discussion the resolution was referred to the Executive Council.

The U. S. S. Adams arrived on April 26 and relieved the Mohican, which started homeward May 1. Admiral Skerrett transferred his flag to the Boston and took up his quarters on shore.

Hopeful Democrats.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—While many of the Democratic statesmen who are at this time devoting their attention to the question of appointments are worried if the ax does not fall a few score times to the hour there is an impression general enough to indicate that there is some ground for it, that in the fullness of time there will be a very complete change in all the offices not protected by the civil service law, and that the appointments to the places will be fairly apportioned among the Democratic workers.

Cleveland's Plan.

NEW YORK, May 12.—A Cincinnati dispatch says that George Clifford, Travelling Passenger Agent of the Canadian Pacific railroad, confirms the report that Mr. Cleveland will make a tour of the world at the end of his term. Mr. Clifford says that Colonel Stevens, of his road, is making a tour of the world mapping out a route and is now in Australia on his way home.

Review of Trade.

NEW YORK, May 12—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: The [illegible] in the Industrial stocks a week ago, the failure of some firms and of the National Cordage company, and the largest decline in stocks known in any week since 1873, have been followed by surprisingly little disturbance. Business has shown remarkable soundness and strength under such a strain. Cotton goods are accumulating and in the woolen trade there is much anxiety about the future. [illegible] Corn has slightly [illegible]. Cotton is unchanged, exports in April having been $3,000,000 less in value and [illegible] pounds less in quantity than last year. All exports are also declining. Exports from New York have been $3,000,000 less for the past [illegible] than last year, while imports show an increase of $3,000,000.

Failures during the week were 200 in number [illegible]

NEW YORK, May 12.—Francis H. SLOW BURNING BUILDINGS.

Comparative Dangers of Light Woods in Construction.

Nothing is more common, after a fire in a so called "slow burning" building like the Ames and other buildings destroyed in Boston, than to hear such sneering remarks as: "That was what the architects call a fire-proof building. I wonder why they don't learn something about their business." [illegible] who know better, [illegible] never have admitted that a construction of wooden beams and planks was fire-proof, or anything except, under certain circumstances, slow burning, and the ridiculous claim that a building with light wooden floors, varnished on the under side, is fireproof simply because it has an inch more thickness of boarding over it than one of the usual kind, is, so far as we know, made only by owners and real estate agents, [illegible] who, as we think, have set an exaggerated value on the virtues of 3-inch planks, do not seem to have had any substantial basis for their opinion.

It was reported that all policies of insurance in Boston on buildings having floor beams of pitch pine were to be canceled on account of the particularly inflammable nature of that timber. It is not likely that any such proceeding, which would deprive of insurance nearly all the so called "slow burning" buildings in the city, was ever really contemplated, but the report certainly indicates that some insurance man had been seized with the notion that a building with pitch pine beams and floors was more combustible than one with spruce or white pine timbers.

Architects of course do not need to be told that the contrary is the case. While pitch is undoubtedly an inflammable material the timber containing it is so dense and heavy as to be kindled with far more difficulty than the light spruce or soft pine. When exposed to great heat, a cubic foot of pitch pine, which weighs about 50 pounds, will burn with much more intensity than a cubic foot of spruce which weighs only 30, just as 50 pounds of coal will produce more heat than 30 pounds. But the same rule applies to the extra thickness of floors so much favored by underwriters, and it is not at all evident why an additional 60 per cent of inflammable material spread on top of a floor should be a good thing while an addition of 60 per cent to the weight of the timbers supporting it should be so bad a thing that the underwriters should refuse to insure buildings so treated.—American Architect.

A Bad Marksman's Shot.

"I served over 12 months in the Confederate army," said Colonel Wilt Sanders, "but I could never attain any efficiency as a marksman. I only distinguished myself once, and then the feat was purely accidental and well nigh cost me my life. I was practicing with three or four other fellows on a big Texas prairie, not very far from a small farmhouse. We were aiming at a tree about 400 yards off, and all the boys except myself hit the trunk two or three times in succession. After I had missed it half a dozen times running some one remarked that I couldn't hit a cow which was grazing peacefully nearly half a mile to our left. I admitted that he was correct and foolishly took aim at the cow to show him how impossible it was for me to hit a mark. The next moment that cow was prancing around like a mad thing, and in less than five minutes it was dead.

"Unfortunately, for me the owner of the cow saw the performance and proceeded to demand satisfaction. I never heard an explanation sound so utterly mendacious as mine must have done, and nothing but the fact that my companions threatened to shoot the irate granger saved me from dying with my boots on. That cow was worth about $10, but the lowest its owner would take was $50, and $20 during the war [illegible] now. Sixty dollars [illegible] a shot is paying a trifle too high for [illegible] practice anyhow."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Wheelman's Day.

CHICAGO, May 12.—All the bicycle riders, whether belonging to clubs or not, or all who belong to any organization of wheelmen, will have a day at the World's Fair. Under the arrangements made by the authorities for this demonstration every wheelman will be permitted to participate in the day's celebration. This will include riders of [illegible] and those from abroad as well as local detached members. In fact it will be a sort of field day, open to all, and promises to be a most enjoyable one both for the bicycle riders and their friends, it being expected that nearly 30,000 wheelmen will participate. It is expected that the parade will draw 100,000 to the Fair on that day. The "Wheelman's day" is set for Wednesday, May 31, the day after the great international road race.

Pressing the Coal Barons.

ST. PAUL, May 12.—Representative Richard A. Walsh, chairman of the [illegible] legislative Coal committee, came out of the grand jury room this afternoon and announced that indictments had been found against John J. Rhodes, general manager of the Minnesota Bureau of Coal Statistics, and Edward N. Saunders, president of the North western Fuel company. The fight of the legislature against coal barons does not end here. Indictments in these cases were simply sought on the ground of perjury in giving testimony before the legislative committee. The principal case, that for criminal conspiracy to raise the price of anthracite coal, will be brought before the grand jury of the United States District Court by Attorney-General Childs.

Counterfeit Railroad Tickets.

CHICAGO, May 12.—The counterfeiters and forgers who recently foisted on American railroads a large number of tickets purporting to have been issued by the Sioux City, Lake Bristineau and Southern, have let loose another batch of tickets bearing the name of a hypothetical road, Carter Creek and Rich Valley. The method of operation was the same as in the other case. There may have been thousands of these tickets sold during the last month. The roads will take vigorous measures to punish the gang if caught.

Studying Prohibition.

KANSAS CITY, May 12.—A royal commission from Canada appointed under letters patent to inquire into systems of prohibiting of the liquor traffic wherever in vogue and report to the Canadian parliament arrived this morning from Chicago. The commission will thoroughly test prohibition. It will examine into every phase of the subject and decide whether or not to recommend the system to the Dominion of Canada.

Lynchers Indicted.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 12.—The grand jury today [illegible] true indictments against citizens alleged to have been concerned in the lynching of Alfred Blount. [illegible] will be tried for murder and twenty as accessories, [illegible] teeth.

ANOTHER BENEFACTION.

Following closely upon the liberal gift of [illegible] for the new Library building of Colorado College from a benefactor in Massachusetts and the conditional gift of [illegible] more from a wealthy gentleman in Illinois comes the pleasant announcement which appears in another column of a generous bequest of [illegible] from the late J. Henry Stickney of Baltimore, Md. These gifts aggregating [illegible] in a single year from residents of [illegible] so far away from Colorado and so widely apart from each other, afford striking evidence of the reputation which our college under the leadership of President Slocum and the able faculty he has gathered about him is securing throughout the country.

The example thus set by Boston, Baltimore and Chicago should inspire to fresh and [illegible] the men of Denver, of Colorado Springs, and of all Colorado, in behalf of an institution whose praise is coming to be in all the land. For this college, within our borders for which the citizens of other States are doing so much, Colorado herself ought surely to do vastly more.

DYNAMITE AS ARGUMENT.

It is the tendency of modern thought, and of modern law, which is the summary of public opinion, to incline towards a leniency of treatment of criminals. We all look forward to a millennium whose indications are not altogether [illegible] king, and under its influence we incline to [illegible] rather than to punish wrong-doers. And it is perhaps the sentiment of [illegible] era of peace and good will that makes us prefer to [illegible] on with men rather than to force them into our way of thinking in the [illegible] old way. This sentiment shows itself in many different directions. Its influence is felt in the agitation against capital punishment and perhaps may be traced in the woman suffrage movement. If political government is to be founded on reason and right [illegible] one of the chief arguments against woman suffrage would be done away with.

But to consider only signs of the times which are favorable is to take a very one-sided view of the case. Occurrences have been frequent of late which show that mankind as a whole cannot be safely trusted to bring himself into harmony with his fellow men, and that for many years to come the law must be backed up by the application of force. A striking example of this class of facts came through the telegraph dispatches [illegible] week. Two prominent citizens of Muscatine, Iowa, who had been prosecuting saloon cases had their residences blown up by dynamite and though no fatalities resulted they had a narrow escape and the houses were completely wrecked. Such an occurrence [illegible] first of all to show that universal [illegible] is not a panacea for [illegible] and the more resources science places at the disposition of [illegible], the more earnest must be the effort of society to prevent and punish crime and the more complete its powers for that purpose.

It makes very little difference whether [illegible] kills his fellow with a club or with [illegible] ingenious contrivances known only [illegible] students. Carlyle Harris [illegible] guilty of murder as Cain and the [illegible] which excuses his act because he was intelligent and cultivated [illegible] which is not less to be condemned [illegible] it is very common. There are defects in our laws as they now [illegible] but the right thing to do is to [illegible] the laws, not to leave them un[illegible].

[illegible] decision which was almost a [illegible] in the Bering sea court [illegible]. The counsel of Great Britain [illegible] United States both exhibited [illegible] which may or may not have [illegible], but which seemed to [illegible] the breaking off of the nego[illegible]. But it is not therefore necessary [illegible] that the court of arbi[illegible]

[illegible] no thing for lawyers to become excited in the midst of an argument, and even to abuse each other. The dignity of a high court of arbitration should save it from such a spectacle, but the importance of the case may furnish an excuse even for unusual arguments. We may be very sure that the eminent lawyers on both sides will leave nothing unused in order to influence the decision of the judges.

A great many people in Colorado Springs have come to have a very high opinion of the Broadmoor band, a reputation that was well deserved by the Hungarians. It is not impossible, however, to find an organization capable of producing music fully equal to the harmony which has of late years delighted the ears of our music lovers. There is therefore good reason for confidence in the announcement by the management of the Casino, that their arrangements this year are not inferior to those of past seasons in the quality of the music to be provided. The Casino's music has been a notable feature of the attractions of Colorado Springs and its loss would be greatly felt.

Indications now point to a considerable deficit this year in the grain supply of the world. In addition to unfavorable crop reports in the United States, European countries declare an unfavorable condition, and it is said that Italy alone will require over a hundred million of bushels in excess of last year's demand. Probably therefore if the American farmers do not have as much grain to sell, they will get better prices for it. They cannot, however, expect a repetition of last year's exceptionally favorable conditions when an immense crop was sold in the face of an unusual supply abroad.

Musicians are a traditionally quick-tempered people and there has probably been more quarreling in the United States over church choirs than from any other source. It is quite in keeping with the value of a World's Fair as an exhibit of the country that the chief trouble in the management so far should lay over the musical director. Mr. Thomas is one of the best known of American musicians [illegible] he should undertake to make himself superior to the National committee.

It was an unfortunate method of expression which led the Louisville convention to say "When the American flag covers American interests and American honor it must never be lowered." They might at least have put honor first.

If the board of lady managers succeed in selling their souvenir quarters for one dollar apiece they will do much better than the men did. The Columbian half-dollars seem to be a drug on the market.

The Democratic party has been frequently characterized as "an organized appetite for spoils." Since Mr. Cleveland spoiled its appetite what is its excuse for living?

Colorado Fruits and Flowers.

The fruit or orchard exhibition was an unlooked-for consummation in so new a State. It was a sight of the dawn of the fruit industry where the best orchards were not five years old. Indeed, some of the finest fruit was plucked where Indians were guarded not long before. There were apples, pears, [illegible] cherries. It was too late in the year [illegible] for berries, but they are grown in Colorado in great abundance, and the strawberries are said to be big and most delicious. The fruits I saw displayed at the fair were of large, though not Californian size. Their most remarkable quality to the eye was their gorgeous coloring—the richest and deepest I ever saw except in [illegible]. I found afterwards that all the fruit grown in the valleys of the Rockies is equally gorgeous. But of more practical import is the fact that this Colorado fruit is of delicious flavor. In Denver and in other parts of the State I tasted every product of the orchards. I cannot recall my experiences in California clearly enough to say more than that they lack their [illegible] away, and so they miss the credit they deserve abroad as growers of luscious fruit. I would like to encourage the Coloradans in their boast that theirs has higher flavor than the west coast product [illegible] it [illegible] true, and I had both kinds to prove it by [illegible] any fruit more than [illegible] in Colorado. The only melons at the show were muskmelons, but it is a great State for melons, particularly for watermelons. One place, Rocky Ford, in Otero county, is celebrated for its observance of what is called "melon day" every year, when the idle people, tourists, and pleasure seekers gather there to eat free melons in a great amphitheater built for that purpose. This affair is not altogether unique. At Monument, in Douglas (?) county, the exuberant villagers dig a great trench and cook potatoes—as the Rhode Islanders do clams—for the multitude without charge.

The wild flowers at this show were very interesting. No account of Colorado would be complete if it omitted at least some mention of these gorgeous ornaments which nature lavishes with lavish hands all over the State far up the mountain sides, where the very rocks are stained with rich colors, and up and down the valleys where [illegible] irrigation, the alfalfa turns the ranches into great beds of thickly clustered blossoms. It may have been the flowers, or it may have been the beautiful [illegible] or, as some say, the color of the water in the Colorado river, that [illegible] the State the Spanish name it bears, but whichever it was, the flowers alone were sufficient to justify the christening, so multitudinous, lovely, varied, and gay are they. Fortunately for the fame of the flowers, certain Colorado ladies are skilled in pressing them so as to reproduce the natural poses of all the flowering plants, as well as to make them retain their colors unimpaired. The work of these women is now known in every part of the civilized world.—From "Colorado and Its Capital," by Julian Ralph, in Harper's Magazine for May.

How Indians Made Maple Sugar.

Ever since the Indians in the section now known as Fletcher discovered "honey" in the maple trees that district has been known far and wide as the heart of the Vermont maple sugar country. The way the red man extracted the delicious compound was somewhat slow as compared with the present process. He used to cut a slanting gash in the bark and insert in the lower end a gouge shaped piece of wood, from which the sap ran and dropped into a poplar or basswood trough. At the end of the season these troughs would be set up against the trees and left until the following season, by which time the troughs would be thoroughly mildewed.

This materially added to the flavor of the aboriginal sugar, but can hardly be said to have improved it. The evaporator of those times consisted of an iron kettle swung from a sapling bent over a stump. By a slow and tedious process the sap was first heated and then boiled in this kettle, often taking two or three days' boiling before it could be sugared off. This was the way in which [illegible] early [illegible] "sweetnin'" to their tea and johnny cake.—Burlington Free Press.

RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Notes and Comments by the Rev. Jas. B. Gregg, D. D.

A successor to Phillips Brooks as Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts has been chosen, Rev. Wm. Lawrence, D. D., now Dean of the Episcopal Theological school at Cambridge. Dr. Lawrence is about 40, is a grandson of Abbott Lawrence, the famous merchant, manufacturer and philanthropist who founded the Lawrence Philosophical school at Harvard. He was rector of Grace church in Lawrence for eight years, and since then has been Professor of Homiletics. Not a man of extraordinary eloquence, he has administrative skill, business ability, and the power that goes with a marked degree of common sense. Simple, earnest, direct, straightforward, he is a man apt to do what he undertakes. His type of theology and churchmanship is said to be similar to that of Phillips Brooks.

The address of Mr. Percy Alden, Warden of the Mansfield College settlement in East London, was one of the interesting features of the meeting of the Congregational association at Manitou this week. Three years ago Mr. Alden began single-handed his work in a part of the great metropolis where 90 per cent. of the population never attend church, and the men almost without exception are atheists, agnostics and secularists of the Bradlaugh type. Now 200 workingmen are co-operating cordially with him in his religious and humanitarian work, and 2000 more are more or less closely affiliated with the enterprise. Six other recent university graduates are now closely associated with Mr. Alden in the work of the settlement. Two of them are in the city council and along a great many lines they are working for the material and moral regeneration of the district which embraces altogether a population of about two hundred and fifty thousands. The Mansfield College settlement is perhaps the most broadly and vitally successful of all the university settlements in England and America. We are glad to announce that the First Congregational and the First Presbyterian Churches of this city will unite in a service held at the latter church to-morrow evening at which Mr. Alden will give an account of his work. He is a very pleasing and effective speaker and the house ought to be filled to overflowing upon the occasion. General Missionary Sanderson at the Congregational association, speaking of evangelistic work in mining camps, told of a man who at his confession thus forcibly expressed his abhorrence of the bad life he had been leading: "I'm plumb disgusted with sin."

We have begged the privilege of making some extracts from a paper read on the subject "How to Interest Church Members and Church Goers in Missions." The paper awakened much interest and many will be glad to see some of its suggestions in print:

Some country may be chosen which for [illegible] is before the public mind—Africa if Stanley's expeditions are filling the papers, the Sandwich Islands at a time like this, or Bulgaria during a political revolution. This at the start this seems like taking practical and worth knowing of, and [illegible] rapidly; but too much condensation leads to dullness, and many meetings may be given to the study of a single country. Taking Africa, for example, someone can look up its geography—a surprising study to anyone whose text-book dates from twenty or even ten years ago. Another can speak of its climate, varying in different localities, with the effect of this variation on the character of the people and perhaps on the case of [illegible] of mission work. Then the history of various parts of the country [illegible] stories of wonderful interest. The explorations of Livingstone and Stanley, the formation of the Congo Free State, some of the customs of barbarism, the fearful slave trade, all are topics of intense interest and will lead to the end we have in view. For, though they may not know it, we are not doing this merely to entertain the uninterested. All this work and study must, if done in the right spirit, lead to an appreciation of the need of these brothers and sisters of ours across the sea, of an uplifting and civilizing influence which can touch their hearts and purify their lives as only the gospel of Christ can do. Many topics of interest will present themselves to the earnest leader, and if the work is given to many people rather than monopolized by a few, new and wider circles will become interested in it. After we know something of the environments of the mission and particularly of the want that it meets, the history of its work will prove of absorbing interest to us and we shall eagerly follow its progress.

Not only the countries in which mission work is going on, may be made subjects of study, but the meetings may be varied [illegible] romantically interesting than some of the stories of missions. They might be grouped in various ways. Stories of missions to strengthen our faith; the providences of God, as illustrated in the history of missions. Under these and many other heads may be gathered tales strange and wonderful, fascinating as fiction, yet bearing the charm of truth. Sometimes, too, we may group the needs of a certain class of people in various foreign countries. From no such study can the need of Christianity be impressed more forcibly on the mind than by comparing the position and promise of children in Christian and heathen lands, or by contrasting the place of woman in our own land with her position in China, in India, in Turkey or Africa. When we are thoroughly interested in our theme, new outlines will certainly occur to the mind. Perhaps most full of suggestion and of comprehensive study will be the consideration of the influence of Christianity on civilization. In [illegible] we find the connecting link between much of our other study and the great cause which is directly our theme. Another line of thought which must prove highly inspiring is the consideration of the courage, the intrepidity, the devotion, the true nobility of some of our great missionaries. Hero worship is not altogether without beneficial effects, and we cannot scorn a cause which great men have deemed worthy their lives. Neither can their consideration fail to arouse in us a keener sense of the uplifting force of the cause of Christ, and of our own lack of earnestness and devotion. The story of Livingstone from the beginning of his explorations through to his painful but glorious death of fever in an African hut; Dr. Judson chained for [illegible] in a dark dungeon in Burmah, Paton in constant peril of his life, yet firm in his resolution to convert the people of the New Hebrides. These are not the tales of common men; they are the stories of heroes,—suffering for their intelligent faith, enduring all things for the hope of the gospel. Not a whit less brave are they than the explorers who brave ice and cold in [illegible] new regions in the north or than Cortez or Pizarro fighting barbarous tribes to plant the banner of Spain in America. Rather they are greater, for they worked [illegible] with no thought of personal glory, but for an inward principle that was their lodestar on the sea, their pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night.

PEOPLE FIND

That it is not wise to experiment with cheap compounds purporting to be blood-purifiers, but which have no real medicinal value. To make use of any other than the old standard AYER'S Sarsaparilla—the Superior Blood-purifier—is simply to invite loss of time, money, and health. If you are afflicted with Scrofula, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Eczema, Running Sores, Tumors, or any other blood disease, be assured that

It Pays to Use

AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and AYER'S only. AYER'S Sarsaparilla can always be depended upon. It does not vary. It is always the same in quality, quantity, and effect. It is superior in combination, proportion, appearance, and in all that goes to build up the system weakened by disease and pain. It searches out all impurities in the blood and expels them by the natural channels.

Dr. W. H. Watson and [illegible]

[illegible]

The Denver Republican in speaking of Jack McAuliffe, who will appear at the Opera House Monday evening in Dun-can Harrison's new play, "The King of the Turf," says: "There may be some dispute as to the histrionic abilities of Mr. McAuliffe, there can be none as to his boxing proficiency. Unlike the other pugilists who thought they were actors Mr. McAuliffe does not slur the boxing part in order to deliver a heroic oration or to pose for the audience. There is a sparring bout in the fourth act between him and Jim Nelson, which is by far and away the best and most realistic given by any of the starring pugilists. Major McAuliffe's sparring partner is not a big knockdown 'pug' who is a foil for the star, but a clean boxer who makes things quite lively for the champion."

Leopold Jordan, the author of Rose Coghlan's comedy success of last year, "Dorothy's Dilemma," is in the city, representing Messrs. C. B. Jefferson, Klaw & Erlanger, the well known man-agers of "The Soudan," "The Country Circus," the comedy "The Prodigal [illegible]" and the great Spanish [illegible] sensation Carmencita. Mr. Jordan is here to complete arrangements for the ap-pearance of Carmencita with "The Prod-igal Father" at the opera house next Saturday night, May 20.

Sunday services at the First Congre-gational Church at 11 a. m. The pastor, Rev. James B. Gregg, D. D., will preach. There will be no service in the evening, but a union service will be held with the First Presbyterian Church at which Mr. Percy Alden, Warden of the Mansfield College Settlement, in East London, will give an account of his work.

The Brotherhood of Grace Church Parish was organized Thursday evening by the election of Rector Kieffer, Presi-dent; J. T. Roten, First Vice-President; R. H. S. Paley, Second Vice-President; R. Ashby, Treasurer, and John Coulthard, Secretary.

Do not forget the concert of the Colo-rado Springs Musical club this after-noon at 3 o'clock in the College chapel. The recital will be given by Mr. Pearson, assisted by Mrs. Campau. Tickets on sale at the door for 75 cents.

Services to-morrow at the Church of the Strangers, United Presbyterian, both morning and evening. Preaching by the pastor; themes: "No More Sea," "The Crystal River." Strangers cordially in-vited to be present.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from [illegible] closing offered at 2. Prime mercan-tile paper [illegible]

The stock market was fairly active, the sales footing up [illegible] shares against [illegible] yesterday. The feature of specula-tion was extremely variable, the bears hav-ing the advantage of additional bank fail-ures at the West, the [illegible] of a number of brokerage concerns on the Lon-don stock exchange, the advance in sterling exchange and the talk about a resumption of [illegible] exports. On these developments the market was raided [illegible] but the pressure was far less than of late. This may be due to the temporary retirement of two operators who for some time have been particularly aggressive on the bear side. The [illegible] made upon prices was hardly commensurate with the efforts put forth by the sellers for the short account, for the reason that leading commission houses were in receipt of liberal buying orders, a considerable amount for strictly investment account. The heavy receipts of currency from the West and Canada have resulted in [illegible] market and the work of carrying stocks is far less difficult than for some time. Hence some of the traders feel inclined to advise [illegible] to hold. Prices [illegible] higher than last night. [illegible]

AN EPOCH IN JOURNALISM.

The New York Sunday Press is regular-ly publishing an Art Cover in seven colors.

On Sunday, March 12, the Sunday Press (New York) started a feature that will mark an epoch in American Journalism. It consists of an Art Cover, in which the paper, when folded to the quarter size, is encased, and it has created an unprecedented demand for the Sunday Press among all classes of people.

The front page of the Art Cover, next Sunday, will show a beautiful reproduction of the Ger-man masterpiece "St. Cecilia," and for the four Sundays in April it will present an original water color design with an art calendar. An orig-inal painting in the original colors by an emin-ent American artist, and two reproductions of famous paintings, admitted masterpieces. The inside pages of the Art Cover will always con-tain exquisite half-tone portraits and illustra-tions of people and topics of the then current week.

Every copy of the Art Cover of any issue of the Sunday Press would command, in any art shop, at least $1.

[illegible]nt-resisting, rubber-covered tele[illegible] cable was buried for six months in [illegible], when it was found to be perfect [illegible] by a grass root.

A remarkable exhibition of instinct was exhibited by a horse at Oil City one day last week. Sunday night the horse was brought into the stable lame, and the stableman thought it was from a sprain. They were rubbing the leg with liniment Monday morning, when the horse broke away from them and ran into a blacksmith shop in the neighborhood. Here he wheeled up to the horseshoer and lifted up his lame leg. The man examined the leg and foot and found that an improperly driven nail had penetrated into the quick of the foot. The shoe was reset, and the horse returned to the barn.—Chicago Herald.

Cripple Creek Gold Fields.

This camp has been wonderfully developed during the past year, so to-day there are at least fifty mines that have been and are shipping pay ore to the stamp mills and smelters, and hundreds of good prospects that are pushing development work daily, and by the time the railroads are completed into the camp many of them will doubtless be shipping properties of pay ore.

The LARGE FRENCH STAMP MILL is now completed, with all the known modern improvements for treating low grade ores successfully, and will begin operations May 1st, treating a hundred tons of ore per day.

The future of this camp is assured. We believe this is a good time to make profitable investments in many of the GOLD MINING STOCKS of this camp, and will take pleasure in furnishing the best information we have regarding the different properties. Call on or address
